

ART - PRINTING

Making a print involves transferring an image from one surface to another. This process can result in repeating identical images over and over again.

Artist study - William Morris

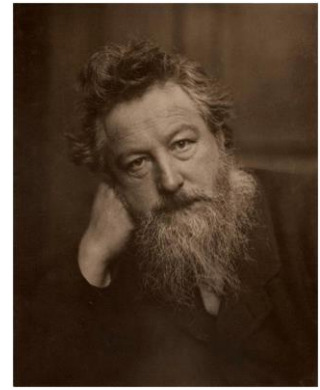

William Morris was a designer who created wallpaper, inspired by nature, during the Victorian period, when it was only affordable for the very rich. He used block printing to create his repeating patterns.

Example of Morris' wallpaper

Questions to think about

- How can we make a printing block?
- How can we get the pattern to repeat?
- What will be the most effective materials to use?

KEY VOCABULARY

Printing

Repeating pattern

Block printing

William Morris